RIALTO IS OUT OF JAIL

Picked Chillingworth's Pockets.

THE DEPUTY TRICKED HIM

Police Informer Told a Tale Which Judge Wilcox Did Not Believe.

THE District Court yesterday morning was as dull as the prevailing weather, and every one of the few cases tried was of an exceedingly commonplace nature.

S. Smith, H. W. Kinney, L. D. Kaaina and George Harbottle were discharged on a charge of gambling.

Limo, an informer, swore that they had been playing "7-11" when arrested, but each of the defendants swore that they had done no such thing.

As the quartette were arrested at some distance from the alleged game, they were given the benefit of the doubt.

Ch. Charles Yerrick was fined $2 and costs for drunkenness. Alas, poor Yerrick!

Herman Schuller, Maloney and Jimmy Nichols, also drunk, pointed up a similar amount.

An ancient drunk started to make a plaintive appeal for leniency.

"I am an old, old man," said he, "a man upon whose head the sun and rain."

Judge Wilcox cut him short and told him he might go.

Moanalua was committed for trial on a charge of larceny.

It appeared that defendant, who is a half-witted Hawaiian, had for some time past been the recipient of diurnal doses of poi, the charity of Mrs. Harry Auld, who resides on Liliha street.

One day when Mrs. Auld returned to her house she found that all the pictures had been removed from the walls. Investigation discovered the works of art merrily decorating the Moanalua domicile.

Rialto, who enjoys the unique record of being the only man to go through the pocket of the deputy sheriff, was released yesterday, after having served a sentence of six months. Rialto was one of a gang whose practice was to decoy drunken sailors to dark places and rob them. Chillingworth feigned drunkenness one night and lay down on Kukul street in an apparent state of drunken stupor. Rialto happened along and bit at the enticing bait, with the result that he has been lost to society for half a year.

Hiroaka, a Japanese, was arrested yesterday for cruelty to animals. He was driving a small horse attached to a drayload of wood. The horse couldn't draw the burden through the mud and the driver beat the horse cruelly with a heavy stick.

FRIENDS PLANNED PLEASANT SURPRISE

Miss Yarrow's Residence Furnished by Church People in Her Absence.

A pleasant surprise party was given Miss Florence Yarrow Monday evening at her home. Miss Yarrow is the popular assistant of Mr. Kincaid at Central Union church and she and her friend, Miss Duff, recently took steps to escape the trials of boarding houses. They secured a pretty cottage on Beretania, near Pili street, and proceeded with their plans of furnishing it.

The Christian Endeavor friends of Miss Yarrow cleverly arranged a pretty deceit. Rev. and Mrs. Kincaid invited her to luncheon with them and contrived to keep her during the afternoon and prevailed upon her to stay to dinner. She was then driven home in the pastor's carriage, to find the little cottage transformed and swarming with about fifty merry friends. Lace curtains had been hung over the windows, the floors had been carpeted and comfortable chairs and artistic little tables had completed the transformation.

Miss Yarrow was quite overcome at first, but after a few minutes she arose to the situation with her usual tact and was busily engaged in entertaining her guests.

The furniture was the gift of the loving and appreciative hearts of Miss Yarrow's friends. The house was prettily decorated with palms and flowers and refreshments were served later in the evening.

The Bartlett Case.

Editor Advertiser: The story related in this morning's issue of your paper in relation to the Bartlett divorce case in which the following statement appears, is wrong and reflects unjustly on me.

The Advertiser says: "Mrs. Bartlett declaring that her husband would not allow her to employ a physician, although the child was desperately ill and finally died."

The truth is, three doctors—Wayson, Taylor and Hodgins—attended the boy; he had membranous croup and died under the operation of tracheotomy. I did not appear in opposition to the divorce being granted but was present as a spectator, and Mrs. Bartlett did not make the statement which would appear to make me the willing murderer and my own and only loved child.

W. S. BARTLETT.

Honolulu, February 12, 1901.

[The reporter's notes of Mrs. Bartlett's statement show that the Advertiser's report was correct.]

Blue Ribbon Socials.

The social venture of the Blue Ribbon Club at Camp McKinley last Friday evening was such a marked and thorough success that it has been decided to arrange for others in the near future. Mrs. George Evans will entertain the club and its invited guests at her home in Palama next Saturday evening. Social entertainment and dancing will be the order of the program and refreshments will be served.
